Communications Intern

The Prisoner Reentry Institute (PRI) at John Jay College provides supports and opportunities for people to live successfully in the community after involvement with the justice system. PRI's programs create pathways for individual success, and our research and public policy advocacy work towards systems change that puts people and communities first. We believe in second chances, lifelong learning, and community.

PRI's Communications Department seeks an Intern to assist with external communications initiatives including the development and production of Reentry Radio, PRI's podcast. Reentry Radio features the voices and stories of students, community members, advocates, and change-makers in the reentry and criminal justice fields. The Intern will assist with content collection, scripting, and post-production for the podcast and various duties related to communications output at PRI. The Intern will develop core communications competencies and participate in realizing creative community-oriented projects.

The ideal candidate will have a passion for storytelling, strong writing skills, and a commitment to social justice and/or an understanding of reentry and criminal justice issues.

Duties:

- Assist with pre-production and production of Reentry Radio
- Monitor news media to assist with curation of media roundup
- Create, schedule, post social media content
- Other duties as assigned

Commitment:

The internship will last for a minimum of one academic semester. Hours and scheduling are flexible, but Intern should expect to work approximately 10 hours per week. Minimal travel around the city may be required for interviews or sound collection.

Compensation:

Intern must be currently enrolled in a college or degree program and arrange for academic credit with their department. PRI will also provide the Intern with an unlimited monthly MetroCard for the full duration of the internship.

Application guidelines:

The application process is rolling. Please submit a cover letter and resume online here:
